Candace Hilligoss stars in this 1962 independent cult horror classic, written, produced, and directed by Herk Harvey. Will a young woman, whose life is disturbed after a car accident find herself after being drawn to an abandoned carnival, where the freak show never ends?

FRANKENSTEIN'S DAUGHTER (B&W) 1958

This tale of teenage terror stars John Ashley and Sandra Knight. As our "Bird" would say, it's a story where the boy chases the girl, only to runaway after she chases him...because she is a monster! This drive-in classic also stars Harold Lloyd, Jr. (son of the great silent film star). Catch the fun as the beatniks bring this to you from the recent Buffalo Comicon!

NIGHT OF THE LIVING DEAD (B&W) 1968

This is the movie that started it all - as the first flick ever shown on "Off Beat Cinema" 25 years ago...and the first modern "zombie" movie from the great director George Romero. This is truly a cult classic you don't want to watch alone, recognized by the National Film Registry as, well, a truly chill flick! Judith O'Dea and Duane Jones star.
