WHAT'S UP TIGER LILY (Color) 1966

A low-rent Japanese spy flick gets a kitschy rewrite from Woody Allen. With hilarious new dubbed dialogue, the revamped movie follows the efforts of secret agent Phil Moskowitz (Tatsuya Mihashi) to uncover the world's best egg salad recipe. Aiding him in his important culinary mission are gorgeous women, of course!

December 8th

SCROOGE (B&W) 1935

Scrooge, the ultimate Victorian miser, hasn't a good word for Christmas, though his impoverished clerk Cratchit and nephew Fred are full of holiday spirit. But in the night, Scrooge is visited by spirits of Christmas past, present, and future. Will Ebenezer find the true meaning? Seymour Hicks stars in this adaptation of Dickens holiday classic.

SANTA CLAUS CONQUERS THE MARITANS (Color) 1964

Martian ruler Kimar (Leonard Hicks) is upset that the children of Mars are lazy and under the influence of too much pop culture from Earth. They are obsessed with the planet's television program! In an attempt to get the kids peppy again, Kimar orders the kidnapping of Santa Claus (John Call), hoping that the jolly old toymaker will know how to cheer the children up again. But two Earth children are also nabbed, and this complicates things for Kimar. Singing star Pia Zadora stars as a child actress in one of her first roles!

PLAN NINE FROM OUTER SPACE (B&W) 1959

Residents of California's San Fernando Valley are under attack by flying saucers from outer space. The aliens, led by Eros (Dudley Manlove) and his assistant, Tanna (Joanna Lee), intend to conquer the planet by resurrecting corpses in a Hollywood cemetery. The living dead -- a cape-wearing ghoul (Bela Lugosi), a vampire (Vampira) and a slow-footed cop (Tor Johnson) who was killed for his nosiness -- stalk curious humans who wander into the cemetery looking for evidence of the UFOs. Directed by Ed Wood, this is considered the worst movie of all time...which is why we love it so much, and has become an annual New Year's Eve weekend tradition!
